New Rent Center Helps Property Owners Track Monthly Rent and Tenant Information

Quicken Rental Property Manager 2.0 adds new features and functionality that address the top customer suggestions. The most common request was for a central place to track important tenant information. Just ten months after our initial launch, we've responded with the addition of the Rent Center.

Until now, keeping track of multiple tenants, payment histories, contact information and lease information was a chore for any rental property owner. Our research showed that the self-designed systems these owners created for these tasks did not provide an easy way to get a summary of all property information while also tracking the details for specific tenants.

Property owners no longer need to make that trade-off. Quicken Rental Property Manager 2.0 enables owners to track this critical information in the same product that they track their cash flow and prepare for their rental property taxes.

The new Rent Center is a major enhancement that:

- Provides an at-a-glance view of who has and has not paid rent in the current month.
- Shows how much rent each tenant paid for the past 12 months.
- Shows which tenants frequently pay late.
- Keeps track of the exact rent balance due factoring in late fees or credits.
- Helps determine how much rental income is from regular rent vs. late fees, or non-sufficient funds fees.
- Provides easy access to important tenant information including lease terms, security deposits and contact information all in the same place where you track rent.
- Makes it easy to enter rent payments directly from the Rent Center.
